Nail Polish With "Smell" On Market

By PATRICIA McCORMACK
NEW YORK (UPI) — A telephone saleswoman in the executive suite of a big company.

"The condition was 'red'—so the caller got through, saying:

"Hey, boss. There's something wrong with the product. It doesn't smell."

The executive-type receiving the call, John Talbot, is almost as precious among teen-agers as the Beatles. He gets credit for inventing flavored lipsticks, strawberry, grape-yum-yum and such.

The caller was talking about Talbot's latest gift to women—nail polish that smells good and all within sniffing distance.

"Now, what's the temperature where you are and have been?" Talbot coolly asked.

He knew from experience the smelly nail polish worked—except under certain conditions, one being frigid temperatures.

The caller said—"yes, the product had been in a cold, cold place for a while. And the smell—er, Talbot ordered, knowing full well that a little warmth would bring back the fragrance in the new product, pleasantly smelling—perfumed, in fact—nail polish.

The caller did and the frozen scent—locked in by cold—came back, once warmed.

Talbot, an intelligence officer during the recent war, knew that his smelly product couldn't go wrong.

"We tested it for a good part of a million dollars," he said in an interview. "And we know, as a matter of fact, that it has more staying power than ordinary perfume—when it isn't so cold."

Talbot, an official of Chesapeake Ponds Inc., is a vaillant sort who has been in cosmetics since the war. His first gift to women was "flavored lipstick—introduced last July 4 and running up nearly $9 million in sales since then.

There are eight flavors and one of the most popular is pineapple, a flavor said to signify hospitality.

Eastern Gains In OVC Race; Murray Loses

Eastern Kentucky has virtually assured itself of the Ohio Valley Conference crown by virtue of an 80-69 win over Western Kentucky Monday night.

The Maroons scoring was led by Lee Lemos who had 24 points, followed by Eddie Bodkin with 20.

Clem Haskins led the Hilltoppers with 22 points.

The score was tied six times in the first 30 minutes with Eastern going ahead 37-36 at halftime.

The Maroons jumped out to a six-point advantage at 47-41 early in the second half and were never headed after that.

In other OVC action, Morehead defeated Murray 78-69 with Harold Sargent leading the way with 24 points. Bob Kohler led Morehead with 13 points.

What's New

A do-it-yourself transistorized ignition kit promises to give winter cars a boost in hard starting weather. For car or boat, the system is installed easily with a pair of pliers and a screw driver without removing the regular ignition system. When the job is completed, the manufacturer says, horsepower will jump as much as 3 per cent, and spark plug life will be extended to as much as 4,000 miles.

Fashionettes

A fashion designer is only as good as the fabric with which he or she works, says Adele Simpson, Mrs. Simpson, New York designer-manufacturer, made the comment in connection with predictions of styles for the next five years. "We're in a great changing world," said Mrs. Simpson, "an era of the scientific. The minute we hit the moon I felt all our clothes were old-fashioned." But she added, she does see continuation of the almost-clothed, or bare look to fashion because of "the cult of the body. Women no longer just get a permanent or shampoo and set. They spend the day on beauty, with massage, facial, exercises. It's no longer just the face that counts," said Mrs. Simpson.

Several spring fashion collections feature the look of the elongated wastline, most frequently accomplished through belts of self-fabric or narrow string of leather riding down around the hips.

What's New
Tired of holding the phone? No longer necessary to wait the longest in telephone equipment. Something called a "Phon-e-gee" can be attached for easier talking. It's an adjustable mechanical arm to hold the set at ear-level, leaving hands free. It also eliminates the need to raise the handset when talking or making a call. A push of a button turns the phone on. It eliminates the need to lower the handset onto the base when terminating a call. A push of a button turns the phone off. And, the gadget amplifies the sound of the call, if you want, says the manufacturer.

Miss Ruth Lassiter Honored Thursday At Grove Meeting

Miss Ruth Lassiter, financial secretary of Woodmen Grove 126 Murray, was selected as the most active and helpful member during 1964. The selection was made by the Grove members Thursday evening at the regular dinner meeting held at the Murray Woman's Club House. Loretta Jobs, in nominating Miss Lassiter for the award of "Woman of Woodcraft 1964," pointed out that Miss Lassiter had been faithful throughout the year in boosting the Grove and the Society, in recommending new members, in performing not only her duties as secretary but in whatever tasks have been assigned, and she is always alert to the needs of members in sickness, in distress or bereavement.

Attention was called to the fact that not only in 1964 has she been active, but as financial secretary of the Murray Grove for over 20 years she has been recognized as one of the most efficient secretaries not only in Kentucky but in the jurisdiction. Promptness in her monthly reports made a distinct contribution in enabling the Grove to win first honors year after year in the Outstanding Grove Contest. Miss Lassiter was appointed financial secretary in 1943.

Robbie Paschall, the grove president, Katie Overcast, Celia Crawford, Gladys Hale, and Mrs. Jobs were elected delegates to represent the Grove at the Woodmen Head Camp in Louisville March 21, 22, and 23.

Genora Hamlett, Laurene Styles, Birdie Parker, Carmen Hosen, and Heloise Roberts were named as alternates.

The Birthday award for February went to Fannie Mae Sled. The invocation was by Salie Lawrence. Mrs. Paschall presided, and Odelle Vance was in charge of tickets.

Valentine Muff was used in the decorations, with colorful Valentine arrangement for the head table and large red hearts down the center of the long table.

Katie Overcast invited the Jesse Houston Service Club to meet with her in February. Gussie Geurin and Celia Crawford will be co-hostesses.

Mrs. Gladys Dunn Hostess For New Hope WSCS Meet
The Woman's Society of Christian Service of New Hope Methodist Church met on February 10th at the home of Mrs. Gladys Dunn with ten members present. It was an all day meeting with the regular monthly program presented in the morning, and a study on "Spanish Americans" completed by Mrs. Allen Poole in the afternoon.

The day's activities began with a short business session conducted by the president, Mrs. Allen Poole. At this time the minutes were read and approved. The roll call followed, and each member made a contribution to the organization. The treasurer, Mrs. Jesse Wells Lassiter, gave the third quarterly report. Other various officers gave their reports.

An announcement was made of a district meeting to be held at The First Methodist Church in Murray on March 18.

A pot luck luncheon was served at noon.

"The Disciplined Life" was the theme of the program presented with Mrs. Walter Wilson as the leader who read Psalms 18:10-12. The hymn, "Saviour, Like A Shepherd Lead Us" was sung and Mrs. Joe Lassiter read Psalms 139:1-12.

Mrs. Wilson discussed "What Is Discipline?" and areas of concern were discussed as follows: Personal devotionals life, Mrs. Perry Parra; church, Mrs. Gladys Dunn; job, Mrs. Selma Stubbfield; your family, the community, and the larger society, Mrs. Dave Burkett.

A period of self-examination followed and group sang "Where He Leads Me I Will Follow," Mrs. J. C. Dunn led the closing prayer.

The March meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Roy McLeod.

Quarterly Home Scene Of Meeting

The home of Mrs. John Quartermorous on the Olive Boulevard was the scene of the meeting of Group I of the Christian Women's Fellowship of the First Christian Church.

Mrs. Frank Roberts presented the study for the day and Mrs. Clyde Jones gave the worship part of the program.

The vice-chairman, Mrs. R. L. Wade, presided in the absence of the chairman, Mrs. R. H. Robbins. Delicious refreshments were served by the hostesses.

The Safe Way

Irene Lee
We have mentioned plans for a gospel meeting in this series of articles several times. We have mentioned February 16 as beginning time. That day has come. What are your plans? In a free America, I can preach. You may come or not. You, too, are free. Please know that you are welcome. You may come and feel free to differ if you do not agree with things said, or if you do not approve of the attitude we may manifest. It does not offend us to be questioned by courteous people. All of you who know the record of churches of Christ in the past know that questions have been encouraged and investigation invited. We have nothing to hide.

Murray is my home. I went through elementary school, high school, and college in this country. I was baptized in the building where I am to preach this week. It then was the meeting place of the Water Street Church of Christ. In this building I made my first little talks. Surely, I have a right to come home and speak to those who are willing to hear. I make no charge for my services. I am here to help. James Miller, Mason Harris, and B. O. Hope also plan to preach in similar meetings during the year.

We are not angry, and we do not expect to say one unkind word. We may use great plainness of speech as did Paul in his preaching, but we are determined to speak only the truth and to speak it in love. (2 Corinthians 3:12; Ephesians 4:15.)

Pray for me that I may have the wisdom to approve things that are excellent, and the courage that which is evil and dangerous even if approved by people I have loved from my youth. I decided to come when I learned that my home church has its dishes, and expensive hall, no doubt to be used more and more for recreation, and that meetings by such good men as Frank Puckett, Roy Cogdill, Hugh Clark, James Miller, Mason Harris are history now. These men came into the country by invitation. I know them and respect them. They are different in age, personality, ability, and manner of presentation, but they will reprove, rebuke, and warn, as well as exhort, in efforts to hold to the old paths. The Pro Wallace lengthy article of hate and slander of a few months ago has been given free circulation as Christian literature. My efforts are feeble, and my task is great; but my motive is good when I plan to do what I can to tell friends I love in the town I call home that the ship of Zion is drifting.

Be with us tonight or whenever you can. Come every night if you can. We will not be begging money, selling books, or entertaining people. I plan to preach to all who come in words that are simple and true to the book, and that come from the heart. Pray for my efforts if you will, but give me a hearing so you can know first hand what you are protesting.

Services each night this week are to be in the American Legion Hall at 7:15. There is to be a service next Sunday at 10:00. Listen to the radio Sunday at 9:15.

South Murray Club Meets In Home Of Mrs. Evermeyer

The South Murray Homemakers Club held its regular meeting in the home of Mrs. Harold Evermeyer, 1608 Hamilton, on Thursday, February 11, at one-thirty o'clock in the afternoon. Mrs. Quinton Gibson presided.

Mrs. John D. Lovins gave the devotion reading Mark 1:3 and making a talk on "Security" by Mrs. E. E. Kirkpatrick. She said we should drop worry as it is spiritual near-sightedness and hang our life on the line and look at it honestly. Mrs. Lovins led the group in prayer.

The lesson on "Posture" was given by Mrs. Lovins. She showed pictures of good and poor posture and said we should check ourselves standing, sitting, and walking. She said we must realize that mental attitude, eyesight, rest and relaxation, clothes, and habits affect our posture and we can improve our posture by correct exercises, going about our daily tasks, walking, stooping, reaching, and keeping our backs straight.

Ten members answered the roll. Mrs. J. H. Walston read the minutes and gave the treasurer's report. Mrs. Dave Hopkins read the landscape notes stating perage we should add nitrogen to our lawns and sow seed for lawns on a honeycomb frost this month.

The club voted to have a Stanley party next month to raise some money.

The hostess, Mrs. Evermeyer, served refreshments of cherry pie, coffee, nuts, and mints after which she took the group to her basement where she showed us her hobby of making candles and flower arrangements. She had arrangements throughout her home expressing Valentine and Washington's birthday ideas.

The next meeting will be Thursday, March 11, at 7:30 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Kenneth Owen. A potluck luncheon will be served at noon. Mrs. Evermeyer will give the lesson on "Manners."

DEAR ABBY: So you say that a barber is not permitted or qualified to remove blackheads? Well, please go to the library and read THE PRACTICE AND SCIENCE OF STANDARD BARBERING, and I believe that you will change your mind after reading the chapter entitled DISEASES OF THE SKIN, SCALP AND HAIR. I am a student at a barber college in Covington, Kentucky, and I have personally removed two warts from the face of a customer by high frequency treatments. I have also removed countless blackheads from the faces of many others.

A barber is trained and qualified to treat any skin disease of the scalp, skin or hair-if the disease is not contagious.

Sincerely Yours,
A FUTURE BARBER

DEAR FUTURE BARBER: A barber is neither qualified nor licensed to treat diseases of the skin, whether contagious or otherwise. It is possible that when you removed two "warts" from the face of your customer one of them may have been a cancer, and the high frequency treatment that you used could have spread malignant cells into the bloodstream. It is also possible that when you remove blackheads, you are unaware that your customer may be a diabetic or suffer from hemophilia (a bleeding disease). Highly qualified dermatologists require special laboratory techniques before they know whether a scaling of the scalp is ringworm or ordinary dandruff.

So my advice to you is to perfect your skill as a barber, and do not

DEAR ABBY: If your husband, who had always been very conservative, suddenly and for no apparent reason or occasion, gave you an expensive monogrammed vanity case, would you be suspicious?

BROWN EYES
DEAR BROWN EYES: Not if they were MY initials.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been happily married for ten years. We have four lovely children. When I first started dating my husband, I told him I was five years younger than I really was, because he was five years younger than I, and I was afraid he wouldn't continue to date me if he knew it.

AGE PROBLEM
DEAR ABBY: Tell him the truth, so I gave my age as the same as his for the marriage records. To this day he believes we are the same age. This has bothered me, Abby, because I feel that one day he might find out. Should I let him go on thinking I am five years younger than I really am?

DEAR ABBY: I know an unmarried girl who has a child. The baby's father can't marry her because he already has a wife and two children, but SHE wears a wedding and engagement ring. So tell the widow's son that a ring doesn't mean a thing.

NO RINGS ON MY FINGERS
I have been married for four years and have one child and another on the way, but I do not wear jewelry of any kind. Not even a wedding ring. The reason being that I simply cannot stand to have anything on my fingers. It makes me nervous.

Backstairs At The White House

By ALVIN SPIVAK
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Backstairs at the White House: Historians may have trouble determining when and how President Johnson came upon "Great Society" as a name tag for his administration.
His first recorded use of the term was on April 17, 1964, when he told a delegation from Montana at the White House:
"We are trying to build a great society that will make your children and your grandchildren and the people three or four generations from today proud of what we are doing."
The President spoke, then, of efforts in the fields of civil rights, agriculture, poverty, full employment and foreign aid.
Author Unknown
He used the "Great Society" phrase in two other speeches that day, to a group of newspaper editors and a delegation of senators from Argentina.
One side says the words "just seemed to appear" in one text and because of verbal mass production that day—were repeated in the other. It is not recalled at least publicly—who composed the words. There was reference to a "great society"—the band a uncaptialized—in 17 speeches between April 17 and May 22, 1964. Each reference was a fleeting one, describing the programs Johnson set forth on meeting human needs.
On May 22, Johnson for the first time made a major point of "Great Society" as a slogan. His text capitalized the G and S, and he spoke at length of building the Great Society "in our cities in our country, and in our classrooms."
Frequent Use
This was in a speech at the University of Michigan. Since then, the "Great Society" slogan has been sounded in most presidential pronouncements.
Where did it really begin? If presidential speechwriters had any ancient point of reference, they aren't saying.
Research has discovered a book titled "The Great Society" which was written 50 years ago by Graham Wallas, an early-day Fabian Socialist. For Wallas, in 1914, The Great Society was one which humanized the modern industrial communities.
The Rev. Robert J. Roth, S. J., an associate professor of philosophy at Fordham University, used the words about research in the current issue of America, the Jesuit magazine. Father Roth said philosopher John Dewey picked up the Wallas praise and used it in a 1927 book titled "The Public and its Problems."
Two Phase Process
"Actually, for Dewey 'The Great Society' was the first step in a two-phase process," Father Roth said. "Its first responsibility was to rid the world of poverty, sickness and social and racial injustice. 'The Great Society' was to become 'The Great Community' by attending to the inner demands of man for esthetic and cultural development, initiative, responsibility and human creativity."
President Johnson has offered many and varied definitions of his own "Great Society," frequently echoing the John Dewey reference in hisiding mankind of poverty, sickness, and social and racial injustice.
A White House assistant, deeply involved in Great Society planning, was surprised to learn recently that the words "great society" were used as long ago as the early 1800's by the poet, William Wordsworth.
In "The Prelude," an autobiographical poem, Wordsworth said:
"There is 'one great society alone on earth':
"The noble living and the noble dead."

Proper Sex Education Will Aid In Cut Of Infant Deaths

(Following is the third of three dispatches on infant mortality and birth defects.)

By DR. VIRGINIA APGAR
(Written for)

United Press International
NEW YORK (UPI)—Leaders in public health familiar with prenatal clinics in crowded cities, where nearly half of infant deaths occur, usually are sympathetic to the complaints of pregnant women who have paid one visit—and have not returned.

These complaints range from the tedious, uninformative period of waiting for a clinic examination, to the often exhaustive catechism over financial resources, the impersonality of the staff, the assembly-line atmosphere, the often inadequate rest-room and snack-bar facilities, the transportation expense, and the long distances from home.

There is unanimity among obstetricians, pediatricians and others concerned with maternity and child health care that there is an enormous room—and compelling reason—for improvement in prenatal clinics.

In so-called charity and voluntary hospitals, and almost invariably we find the identical problems everywhere: overcrowding, long waiting periods, lack of manpower and lack of any opportunity for exercise of the personal doctor-patient relationship.

But let me say to women in early pregnancy, that even if they do feel some reluctance over making their first visit to a prenatal clinic, we usually find that only about one in five, will need to make a second visit somewhat later.

Those who are requested to return at close intervals are the high-risk cases where we find such disorders as diabetes, high blood pressure, anemia and obesity. In these cases, there are remedial measures that can be taken.

Many pediatricians around the country to whom I have talked and other health authorities assert that the majority of Americans look upon childbirth much too flippantly and frivolously.

They concur with this view of Dr. Gertrude L. Bramley, chief medical officer of the Handicapped and Cripple Children's Service, District of Columbia General Hospital: "Most of our young people look upon marriage as nothing more than a lark and a ball. They forget or just don't know that the peak incidence of death in this country surrounds the first day of birth and the next 48 hours."

From all of my colleagues in public health I hear increasing demands for more education in the schools on sex and reproduction than is now available.

Some advocate that formal sex education start in the elementary grades, if not in kindergarten. In far too many school systems, competent instruction in this area is virtually non-existent.

The time is long overdue for us to roll up our sleeves and get to work. Despite our widely-held Puritan conception that sex just really isn't something to be talked about, we can't wait to teach our young the basic facts of reproduction throughout their school years.

We can give them sound training in physiology, hygiene and diet, as well as premarital counseling. And, most certainly, we can make our prenatal clinics more inviting, and less warring on those expectant mothers who should use them.

Published as a public service by the company.

The Safe Way

Irene Lee

Wordiness appears in many forms and brings heavy grieving results. "Damas hath forsaken me, having loved this present world," (2 Timothy 4:10) These sad words appear on the same page in the letter to Timothy in which Paul announced that the time of his departure was at hand. One of the last memories of this man of God was of Damas turning his back because of the love of the world. Damas would not stand when the going was hard.

The church at Corinth tolerated a member who took his father's wife. They had not put away that wicked person from among them when Paul wrote. They allowed the seven of wickedness which was capable of heaving the whole lump to remain among them. This falling to fight the troops of wordiness and wickedness is an ever present tendency among congregations. By allowing more and more families in the church to be contaminated by sin, and yet remain active in the church, develops a condition within the congregation that would cause it not to endure sound doctrine. They should ask a preacher to leave who "meddled" with these sins, rather than repent at his preaching. Read all of 1 Corinthians 6 carefully.

When serious issues arise and churches start catering to the world, the love for the truth dies. Carnality, pride, emphasis on the physical and on the profits of men, take the place of spiritual growth. Many should learn that he cannot serve God and mammon at the same time. A choice must be made. (Matthew 6:24) It is impossible to please God and win the praise of men. Please God, and you will please men, or God or do I seek to please men? for I yet please men, I should not be the servant of Christ. (Galatians 1:10) "Yes, and all that will give glory in Christ Jesus, shall suffer persecution." (2 Timothy 3:12) "Woe unto you, when all men shall speak well of you! for so did their fathers to deny these verses."

Large congregations, of course, often profess faith in Christ and men of strong faith. If there has been carelessness or failure to discipline, reprove, and rebuke, there will be some that are very worldly. Likely there will also be a few names even in a place like Sardis that have not defiled their garments. (Revelation 3:4) Which group would be criticized more where you worship, those more like the world or those more like the saints? Do you realize that Christ was crucified between two thieves as if he were a chief of sinners? The world will praise one who conforms to its standards. It will persecute in the courts those who fall far below the world's standards. It will persecute with more vigor those who live above their standards and rebuke their sins. "Which of the prophets have not your fathers persecuted?" (Acts 7:52) Stephen asked this thought-provoking question.

To please men, we must conform. To please God, we must be transformed by the influence of the world, and the example of Christ say our minds. (Romans 12:12) Choose ye this day whom you will serve. The vast majority will go the broad way to destruction with the crowd. The way of truth shall be evil spoken of. (Matthew 7:12-14) 2 Peter 2:1-3 I would like to preach to you tonight in the American Legion Hall in Murray at 7:15. The meeting is to last through Sunday night. There will also be a service at 10:00 on Sunday. Listen to Murray radio at 9:15 Sunday, and look in this paper for The Safe Way article each day. (Advertisement)

SETTLE — WORKMAN CO.

T.V.A. Weekly Letter

TVA steam-electric generating plants burned 22.1 million tons of coal in the 1964 calendar year, down from 22.6 million tons the previous year. Favorable water power conditions enabled hydroelectric plants on the TVA system to carry more of the power load, reducing the demands on steam plants.

Total fuel expense at the steam plants was $34 million.

Net generation from TVA steam plants was less than 54 billion kilowatt-hours, compared to 55½ billion kwh the previous year.

Net generation from the 45 hydro plants which produce electricity for the system, reached more than 49 billion kwh, a near-record. The total the previous year was about 15½ billion kwh. More than 2 billion kwh were produced at these hydro plants in December, the highest one-month total from water power in nearly three years.

Over-all net generation at both plants and hydro plants totaled nearly 73 billion kwh, a new calendar year record. In the six months from July to December, however, generation was slightly less than in the same period of 1963. The normal growth in regional power requirements just about offset the effects of a large reduction last July in power loads at Atomic Energy Commission installations served by TVA.

TVA has begun impoundment of the fifth lake in the Beech River multipurpose water control system midway between Nashville and Memphis. A detention-type dam with no permanent pool also is complete. Work on the two remaining small reservoirs in the Beech River system was suspended at the start of the winter and will resume next spring. Channel improvement continues.

January was the first month of below-normal rainfall in the Tennessee Valley since June of last year.

TVA said today. Precipitation for the month, some of it received as snow, averaged 3.6 inches of water across the Valley. That was about an inch below the normal for January.

The Valley's highest and lowest precipitation totals for the month were reported from two locations only about 40 miles apart in western North Carolina. The high was 7.40 inches at Clingman's Dome in Great Smoky Mountains National Park. The low was .94 of an inch at Asheville.

Tennessee River streamflow measurements indicated that January water runoff in the Valley was equal to an average 2.60 inches of rain, a little less than normal.

At the end of January most of TVA's tributary reservoirs still had water levels somewhat higher than usual for that time of year. All were low enough to leave the required storage space for floodwaters, however.

TVA has begun one-year water quality sampling programs in two more tributary areas, the Lower Hiwassee River watershed in southeastern Tennessee and the Upper French Broad watershed of western North Carolina. Water samples collected periodically will be analyzed for mineral and sanitary characteristics.

Samples will be collected at four points in the Hiwassee watershed. The information will be used by the Hiwassee River Watershed Development Association in industrial development efforts, and by area towns and cities planning future water supply and waste disposal facilities.

In the Upper French Broad watershed, samples will be taken at 26 points on six streams. This study will help local governments and planning groups determine future water use in the area and also will help determine how possible future reservoirs can affect water quality.

Both areas are participating with TVA and state agencies in the Tennessee Valley tributary area development program. TVA already has carried out water quality surveys in several other tributary areas.

WHAT'S GOING ON HERE

By Wendell P. Butler

Ky. Dept. of Agriculture

Thursday, February 18 is an important date for Kentucky burley tobacco growers. On this date they will cast their votes in the burley tobacco referendum to decide whether or not we will have a program of quota control and supports for the next three years.

A majority of our farmers know that the support program is the key factor in the continued success of the burley tobacco program. Without the supports, prices would be so low that farmers couldn't afford to grow tobacco. Most farm leaders feel that the referendum will go in favor of the support program. But just approving the program isn't enough. More important, this year must show the largest turnout of voters ever to vote in a tobacco referendum.

This large support of the burley program is needed by our congressmen as a show of strength among tobacco growers. The tobacco industry must answer its critics, and by joining together we can show a united front for this vital industry.

The importance of burley tobacco to Kentucky's agricultural economy cannot be emphasized too much. For in 1964 an example, it amounted to $25,000,000. This was 63 per cent of the total cash income from farm crops. These alone are striking figures. But if we figure that a dollar of farm income has a four dollar impact on the total economy, we see that the income from tobacco amounts to well over one billion dollars to Kentucky's over-all economy.

Another important factor we should note is the fact that burley tobacco isn't centered in one particular locality of the State. Rather, it is grown throughout the Commonwealth, with only a small number of counties not growing enough to be of significance. This burley tobacco is the main cash crop of our farmers, regardless of what their major farming enterprise might be. And this applies to the farm with the small allotment, as well as those with the larger bases.

Then too, this $200,000,000 from burley comes at a time when our farm people are having little or no income from other farm enterprises. During the burley sales, a supercharge is given the economy through dollars realized from this cash crop. Yes, tobacco is important to Kentucky, and I and my fellow workers in the Department urge our farmers to vote February 25. Your support will play a major part in the future of this important industry.

The 1965 annual Kentucky Poultry Show and Sale will be held February 26-27 at the State Fairgrounds in Louisville. This event will offer high quality animals from Kentucky, Indiana, Ohio, Illinois, and Pennsylvania, representing some 21 herds. Each one has been selected on the basis of rigid standards, making for an outstanding show and sale.

Over $5,000 will be offered in premiums. All farmers are invited and urged to attend this show and sale, for it is another phase of our progressive livestock industry.

Fun With

By LOUI CASSELL
United Press International
There are phrases in every profession, and the best way to deal with them is to poke fun at them. This service has been performed for the clergy by the Rev. Charles Merrill Smith, pastor of Wesley Methodist Church in Bloomington, Ill. He has perpetrated a book entitled, "How to Become a Bishop Without Being Religious." It is the most devastating and delightful piece of religious satire since C. S. Lewis wrote his famous "Screwtape Letters."

With tongue in cheek, the Rev. Mr. Smith offers "practical suggestions" to ministers who are more concerned with promoting their own careers than with preaching the gospel of Christ. Along the way, he also aims some dandy barbs at laymen.

Needs Right Image
The first requisite for getting ahead in the ministry, he says, is to cultivate the right image. It is not necessary—in fact, it is a positive handicap—to be a genuinely religious man has deep convictions about the importance of doing God's will, and "is likely to be uninterested in the kind of impression he makes on people, often involved in unpopular causes, and frequently intolerant of what he conceives to be injustice or evil."

What the successful preacher must be is pious. He must speak, even to his wife and children, in "a stained-glass voice." He must wear a black, Oxford gray or navy blue suit which has been carefully tailored to look slightly out of style.

It is essential to the achievement of the pious image to project a mild but distinct quality of asceticism," says the Rev. Mr. Smith. "The average Protestant church in America is made up of people who are only a few decades removed from their puritan ancestors and who have not yet succeeded in shaking themselves free from the conviction that a Christian is one who doesn't enjoy this world very much."

The most important decision an aspiring minister must make is selecting a wife. A mis-step here is fatal to his career. He cannot sidestep the problem by remaining a bachelor. "A clergyman who remains unmarried for more than a year after graduation from seminary is suspected of being abnormal, immoral or chicken."

Disguise Self
Clergyman's wife "must not be beautiful, stylish or sexy." Should she happen to possess these traits naturally, she must master the fine art of disguising them by the way she dresses and acts. Otherwise, the congregation would never approve of her.

Instead of carrying a girl for "some irrelevant reason" such as falling in love, the Rev. Mr. Smith sternly admonishes young ministers to pick a wife who can operate a mimeograph machine, play the piano, teach a Sunday school class, sing in the choir, and perform other chores which congregations expect from them in their role as unmarried assistant pastor.

In preparing his sermons, the ambitious minister must remember to avoid any reference to controversial social issues, such as segregation. It is perfectly safe to be liberal in theology since the average congregation is so theological that it wouldn't be able to MELCHIOR OFF KEY—TV producer Mary Markham, 40, stands outside court in Los Angeles after being granted a divorce from opera singer Laurits Melchior, 72, ending marriage of five and one-half months, plus a "cool" friendship of 20 years. She began as his secretary. "Extreme cruelty," she charged, saying he objected violently to her career and her friends. The property settlement adds up to a cool $100,000.
